

The man with money knows that one dollar at a time will build a fortune; one stick at a time makes a cord.

You've often heard about that man who "said nothing and sawed wood." He didn't expect to saw a whole cord at once.

He didn't expect to make a whole fortune at once. But he began with a little deposit in the bank and piled up a fortune almost before he knew it.

Look at the men today who said nothing and "sawed wood" a few years ago.

John D. Rockefeller was one of them. You can do the same.

THRUSHES EAT INSECTS

Over Thirty Per Cent of Vegetable Food Is Wild Berries.

Domestic Fruits Are Eaten So Sparingly by the Birds as to Be of No Economic Importance—Devours Many Harmful Beetles.

(By F. L. BEALL.)
The thrushes are pronounced ground feeders, and may often be seen picking small fruit that has fallen to the ground. The vegetable portion of their food (49.73 per cent) is largely composed of fruit, which constitutes over 34 per cent of the total food. Of this 30.88 per cent is made up of wild berries, which outweigh the domestic varieties with every species. In all, 94 species of wild fruits or berries were identified in the stomachs of these birds, although it is not always practicable to identify such material unless seeds or some other characteristic parts are present. As this is not often the case, a considerable portion of the stomach contents must be pronounced "fruit pulp" without further identification; thus probably many more species are eaten than are recorded. Moreover, in the case of some fruits, it is not possible to distinguish species by the seeds, so that many species go unrecognized except as to genus. Domestic fruits are eaten so sparingly by the thrushes as to be of no economic importance.

The wood thrush is distributed over the eastern part of the United States wherever suitable conditions are found. It is a lover of open groves and bushy pastures, and may be found along little traveled roads and near low bushy swamps.

For the investigation of the food habits of the wood thrush 171 stomachs were available.

Beetles, collectively (29.40 per cent) constitute the largest item of animal food. Of these, 2.23 per cent are the predaceous ground beetles generally considered useful. The remainder belong to several more or less harmful families, of which the May-beetle family amount to 10.17 per cent.

More than nine-tenths of the vegetable food of the wood thrush can be included in a single item—fruit. Cultivated fruit, or what was thought to be such, was found in stomachs taken from June to September, inclusive. It was eaten regularly and moderately, and the total for the season was 3.74 per cent of the whole food. Wild fruits or berries of 22 species were found in 72 stomachs, distributed through every month of the bird's stay at the North.

The hermit thrush inhabits the eastern states in winter as far north as Massachusetts and breeds from the mountains of Maryland and Pennsylvania and from northern Michigan and central Minnesota northward to Alaska.

Inquiry into the food habits of this bird covered 551 stomachs, collected in 29 states, the District of Columbia and Canada, and representing every month of the year. In the primary analysis the food was found to consist of 44.51 per cent of animal matter and 55.49 per cent of vegetable. The former is mostly composed of insects, with some spiders, while the latter is largely fruit, chiefly wild species. Beetles constitute 15.13 per cent of the food. The ants destroyed—12.46 per cent of the food—keep up the reputation of thrushes as ant eaters. Caterpillars, eaten in every month and mostly in goodly quantities, appear to be a favorite food of the hermit thrush. Flies comprise 3.92 per cent

AUCTION SALE OF STOCK

Dr. Isbell to Offer Fine Bunch at Fair Grounds April 12.

Dr. G. P. Isbell will have an auction sale of about fifty head of business and pleasure horses, including three combined stallions and twelve nice ponies on Wednesday, April 12, at the Pennyroyal fair grounds. The sale will begin promptly at 1 o'clock p. m.

Husband Her Brother.

Ethel Zinn Snell, aged 22, has sued for the annulment of her marriage to Charles Snell, aged 32, at Anderson, Ind., and a strange story is told. Mrs. Snell says her husband's real name is Zinn and that they are brother and sister. They were orphans, separated when small children. They met in 1912 under different names and were married. Later the bride learned the truth and shortly afterwards Snell was sent to the penitentiary at Frankfort for housebreaking, where he now is.

"Heaven Below."

Rev. C. M. Thompson in an announcement in an afternoon paper gave in the subject of his Sunday night sermon as "Heaven Below," but the printer got it "Hiram Belowed." Dr. Thompson announced at the First Baptist church at the morning service that he would preach some other time on the subject assigned him. His night sermon, however, was postponed on account of illness in his family, and Rev. H. E. Gabby filled his pulpit.

Child's Tragic Death.

Cadiz, Ky., April 10.—Harry, the 5-year-old son of K. L. Varney, County Farm Agent of this county, was drowned Thursday by falling into the cistern. The cistern was under a back porch. Part of the top had been removed. The little fellow came too near the opening and slipped in. It was thirty minutes before the body was recovered. Mr. and Mrs. Varney left with the body for their former home in Pike county.

Millions For Kentucky Rivers

An appropriation of $5,500,000, to be spent on Ohio River work, was approved yesterday by the house in consideration of the Rivers and Harbors Bill. Tennessee, and Cumberland River appropriations for work in Kentucky were also adopted.

A Manless District.

Vienna, April 10.—In the whole agricultural district of Dornbirn, about the same size as an American county, not a single man can be found today. The army has taken them all. The last man left on February 20. All the field work will now be done by women and children.

Woman's Constancy.

Mrs. Margaret Ryan, of New York, has accepted a policy of watchful waiting towards her lover Reynold Forsbey, who was sent to prison in New York in 1912 for a term of 22 years, for murder. She says she will wait until his term is out and then marry him.

Aeroplanes Missing

Three Austrian aeroplanes, which were part of a squadron which raided railway stations back of the hostile lines, failed to return to their base and apparently have fallen victim to the Italians.

There are at least five libraries in the world which contain more than 1,000,000 volumes each.

DAIRY HERD IN WINTER

First Essential Is That Cows Be Kept Comfortable.

Right Kind of Feed Goes Long Way Toward Bringing About Contented State of Mind—Several Important Factors.

(By W. M. KELLY.)
Good stable management is an important factor in determining the profits from the dairy herd during the winter. The first essential is that the cows be comfortable, because a cow kept otherwise can never do her best.

She must have a comfortable place to lie down, stand up, move and stretch her limbs and lick herself all over the body. She must have sunshine and plenty of light. She must have pure air to breathe, and this means that the stable must be provided with some system of ventilation to give a frequent change of air.

This need not be expensive, only a little forethought and a few dollars' worth of material and labor. She must have good pure water at least twice a day, or better still, have an automatic water basin at her side.

The stable should be cleaned daily, and be thoroughly disinfected. The ceiling, floor and sides should be all smooth and of concrete construction, and the fixtures largely iron. It is not expensive, and they are sanitary and permanent.

Large, smooth concrete mangers for feeding are about the best we know of today. Judgment and common sense must be exercised in the methods of feeding and handling the cows. Fixed rules in feeding are not practical.

Overfeeding is wasteful; underfeeding is unprofitable. The cows must be well nourished at all times, but if given more than they need for maintenance and production, they waste it as a rule.

Never stir up dust or foul odors at milking time. If you do a lot of it is sure to get into the milk.

Whether to feed the cows just before milking is a much debated question. It is not at all dangerous to feed them a little grain, provided you stir up no dust or disagreeable odors.

As a rule, the cows will give down their milk more freely when they have Profitable Dairy Type.

contented minds, and a little of the right kind of feed goes a long way toward bringing about this contented state of mind. Never clean the stables just before milking, for it will stir up a tenfold worse odor than any feed the cows will eat.

Surrounding conditions have much to do with the milk-producing value of any ration.

Dairy cows cannot make as good use of whole grain as they can of grain that has been ground.

In the generality of cases, heifers with their first calf do not show as high a test of butterfat as they do at a more mature age.

A period of rest before freshening will usually produce a larger flow of milk than where the animal is milked close up to calving.

A man can better afford to sell butter at the cost of production than to sell grain, that is, when the selling price of the butter includes the feeds and labor at their market value.

GEO. S. BEARD

Here To Answer To An Indictment Found In 1914.

Geo. S. Beard, who conducted a circulation contest for the Kentuckian in 1914 and was indicted upon a charge of wrong doing in connection therewith at the September court in 1914, was arrested at New London, Mo., and brought here by special Deputy Sheriff Low Johnson Sunday night, to answer the charge. He was conducting a contest for a paper at New London, near Hannibal. Bail was fixed at $500 in the case. Frank Rives is his attorney.

STEAL RARE COINS

Rome, April 7.—Thieves yesterday entered the Etruscan museum of Corneto, an Italian town on the Mediterranean in the province of Rome, and stole the famous collection of ancient coins, cameos and jewels on exhibition there.

Joseph L. Bristow was a farmer before he took up the study of law.

Field Marshal Sir Evelyn Wood was a sailor before he joined the army.
